

An Introduction to Primary Water

Mark Burr, CEO
Primary Water Technologies LLC

Mr. Burr will present the concept that Earth creates water—that the interior of our planet is the source of nearly all of the water of our very blue planet. The Primary Water Cycle begins deep within the mantle and forces H₂O in all its phases to the surface; this is a renewable and sustainable resource available globally without regard to climate or geology. A review of the emerging deep earth water cycle science will be presented with the aim of answering the skeptics: how to prove this theory using the latest advancements in geo-physics and geo-chemistry as advanced by the Water Conference scientists. Mark is a dynamic speaker and has made presentations in English, Spanish and Arabic during his career.
